

LOVE
NO. 229

DELIVERED ON SABBATH MORNING, DECEMBER 19, 1858,
BY THE REV. C. H. SPURGEON,
AT THE MUSIC HALL, ROYAL SURREY GARDENS.

*“We love Him because He first loved us.”
1 John 4:19.*

DURING the last two Sabbath days I have been preaching the Gospel to the unconverted. I have earnestly exhorted the very chief of sinners to look to Jesus Christ—and have assured them that as a preparation for coming to Christ they need no good works, or good dispositions—but that they may come just as they are to the foot of the Cross and receive the pardoning blood and all-sufficient merits of the Lord Jesus Christ. The thought has since occurred to me that some who were ignorant of the Gospel might, perhaps, put this query—is this likely to promote morality? If the Gospel is a proclamation of pardon to the very chief of sinners, will not this be a license to sin? In what respects can the Gospel be said to be a Gospel according to holiness? How will such preaching operate? Will it make men better? Will they be more attentive to the laws which relate to man and man? Will they be more obedient to the statutes which relate to man and God? I thought, therefore, that we would advance a step further and endeavor to show, this morning, how the proclamation of the Gospel of God, though in the commencement addresses, itself, to men who are utterly destitute of any good, is, nevertheless, designed to lead these very men to the noblest heights of virtue. Yes, to ultimate perfection in holiness! The text tells us that the effect of the Gospel received in the heart is that it compels and constrains such a heart to love God. “We love Him because He first loved us.” When the Gospel comes to us, it does not find us loving God; it does not expect anything of us. But coming with the Divine application of the Holy Spirit, it simply assures us that God loves us, be we ever so deeply immersed in sin. And then, the after effect of this proclamation of love is that, “we love Him because He first loved us.”

Can you imagine a being placed halfway between this world and Heaven? Can you conceive of him as having such enlarged capacities that he could easily discern what was done in Heaven and what was done on earth? I can conceive that before the Fall, if there had been such a being, he would have been struck with the singular harmony which existed between God’s great world called Heaven and the little world—the earth. Whenever the chimes of Heaven rang, the great note of those massive bells was love! And when the little bells of earth were sounded, the harmonies of this narrow sphere rang out their note and it was just the same—love. When the bright spirits gathered around the great Throne of God in Heaven to magnify the Lord, at the same time there was to be seen the world, clad in its priestly garments, offering its sacrifice of purest praise. When the cherubim and seraphim did continually cry, “Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of Hosts,” there was heard a note, feebler, perhaps, but yet as sweetly musical coming up from Paradise, “Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of Hosts.” There was no jar, no discord. The thunder peals of Heaven’s melodies were exactly in accord with the whispers of earth’s harmonies! There was “glory to God in the highest,” and on earth there was glory, too! The heart of man was as the heart of God. God loved man and man loved God. But imagine that same great Spirit to be still standing between the heavens and the earth, how sad He must be, when He hears the jarring discord and feels it grate upon the ear! The Lord said, “I am reconciled to you, I have put away your sin.” But what is the answer of this earth? The answer of the world is, “Man is at enmity with God—God may be reconciled, but man is not. The mass of men are still enemies to God by wicked works!”

When the angels praise God, if they listen to the sounds that are to be heard on earth, they hear the trump of cruel war. They hear the bacchanalian shout and the song of the lascivious and what a discord is this in the great harmony of the spheres! The fact is this—the world was originally one great string in the harp of the universe and when the Almighty swept that harp with His gracious fingers there was nothing to be heard but praise. Now that string is snapped and where it has been reset by Grace, it is still not wholly restored to its perfect tune and the note that comes from it has but little of sweetness—and very much of discord. But, O bright Spirit, retain your place and live on. The day is hastening with glowing wheels and the axle thereof is hot with speed. The day is coming when this world shall be a paradise again. Jesus Christ who came the first time to bleed and suffer that He might wash the world from its iniquity, is coming a second time to reign and conquer that He may clothe the earth with Glory! And the day shall arrive, when You, O Spirit, shall hear again the everlasting harmony. Once more the bells of earth shall be attuned to the melodies of Heaven. Once more shall the eternal chorus find that no singer is absent, but that the music is complete!

But how is this to be? How is the world to be brought back? How is it to be restored? We answer the reason why there was this original harmony between earth and Heaven was because there was love between them and our great reason for hoping that there shall be at last reestablished a perfect harmony between Heaven and earth is simply this—that God has already manifested His love towards us—and that in return, hearts touched by His Grace do even now love Him! And when they shall be multiplied and love reestablished, then shall the harmony be complete.

Having thus introduced my text, I must now plunge into it. We shall notice the parentage, the nourishment and the walk of love. And we shall exhort all Believers here present to love God because He has first loved them.

I. In the first place, THE PARENTAGE OF TRUE LOVE TO GOD. There is no light in the planet but that which comes from the sun. There is no light in the moon but that which is borrowed and there is no true love in the heart but that which comes from God. Love is the light, the life and way of the universe. Now, God is Life, Light, the Way and—to crown all—God is Love. From this overflowing fountain of the Infinite Love of God all our love to God must spring. This must always be a great and certain truth, that we love Him, for no other reason than because He first loved us! There are some who think that God might be loved by simple contemplation of His works. We do not believe it! We have heard a great deal about admiring philosophers and we have felt that admiration was more than possible when studying the works of God. We have heard a great deal about wondering discoverers and we have acknowledged that the mind must be base, indeed, which does not wonder when it looks upon the works of God. We have sometimes heard about a love to God which has been engendered by the beauties of scenery, but we have never believed in its existence! We do believe that where love is already born in the heart of man, all the wonders of God's Providence and Creation may excite that love again, it being there already. But we do not and we cannot believe, because we never saw such an instance, that the mere contemplation of God's works could ever raise any man to the height of love! In fact, the great problem has been tried and it has been solved in the negative. What said the poet—

“What though the spicy breezes blow soft over Java's isle Where every prospect pleases and only man is vile.”

Where God is most resplendent in His works and most lavish in His gifts, there man has been the vilest and God is the most forgotten!

Others have taught, if not exactly in doctrine, yet their doctrine necessarily leads to it, that human nature may of itself attain unto love to God. Our simple reply is, we have never met with such an instance. We have curiously questioned the people of God and we believe that others have questioned them in every age, but we have never had but one answer to this question, “Why have you loved God?” The only answer has been, “Because He first loved me.” I have heard men preach about free will, but I never yet heard of a Christian who exalted free will in his own experience! I have heard men say that men of their own free will may turn to God, believe, repent and love. But I have heard the same persons, when talking of their own experience, say that they did not so turn to God, but that Jesus sought them when they were strangers, wandering from the fold of God! The whole matter may look specious enough when preached, but when felt, it is found to be a phantom. It may seem right enough for a man to tell his fellows that his own free will may save him—but when he comes to close dealing with his own conscience—he, himself, however wild in his doctrine, is compelled to say, “Oh, yes, I do love Jesus because He first loved me.” I have wondered at a Wesleyan Brother who has sometimes railed against the Doctrine of Election in the pulpit—and then has given out this very hymn and all the members of the Church have joined in singing it most heartily—while at the same time they were tolling the death-knell of their own peculiar tenets, for if that hymn is true, Arminianism must be a lie! If it is the certain fact that the only reason for our loving God is that His love has been shed abroad in our hearts, then it cannot be true that man ever did or ever will love God until first of all God has manifested His love towards him!

But without disputing any longer, do we not all admit that our love to God is the sweet offspring of God's love to us? Ah, Beloved, cold admiration every man may have—but the warmth of love can only be kindled by the fires of God's Spirit! Let each Christian speak for himself—we shall all hold this great and cardinal Truth of God that the reason of our love to God is the sweet influence of His Grace. Sometimes I wonder that such as we should have been brought to love God at all. Is our love so precious that God should court our love dressed in the crimson robes of a dying Redeemer? If we had loved God, it would have been no more than He deserved, but when we rebelled and yet He sought our love, it was surprising indeed! It was a wonder when He disrobed Himself of all His splendors and came down and wrapped Himself in a mantle of clay. But I think the wonder is excelled yet, for after He had died for us, we still did not love Him! We rebelled against Him. We rejected the proclamation of the Gospel. We resisted His Spirit. But He said, “I will have their hearts.” And He followed us day after day, hour after hour. Sometimes He laid us low and He said, “Surely they will love Me if I restore them!” At another time He filled us with corn and with wine and He said, “Surely they will love Me now.” But we still revolted, still rebelled. At last He said, “I will strive no longer. I am Almighty and I will not have it that a human heart is stronger than I am. I turn the will of man as the rivers of water are turned,” and lo, He put forth His strength and in an instant the current changed and we loved Him because we then could see the love of God, in that He sent His Son to be our Redeemer!

But we must confess, Beloved, going back to the Truth of God with which we started, that never should we have had any love towards God unless that love had been sown in us by the sweet seed of His love to us. If there is anyone here who has a love to Christ, let him differ from this Doctrine here, if he insists, but let him know that he shall not differ hereafter, for in Heaven they all sing praise to Free Grace! They all sing, “Salvation to our God and to the Lamb.”

II. Love, then, has for its parent the love of God shed abroad in our hearts. But after it is Divinely born in our heart it must be Divinely NOURISHED. Love is an exotic. It is not a plant that will nourish naturally in human soil. Love to God is a rich and rare thing. It would die if it were left to be frostbitten by the chilly blasts of our selfishness. And if it received no nourishment but that which can be drawn from the rock of our own hard hearts, it will perish. As love comes from Heaven, so it must feed on heavenly bread! It cannot exist in this wilderness unless it is nurtured from above and fed by manna from on High. On what, then, does love feed? Why, it feeds on love. That which brought it forth becomes its food. “We love Him because He first loved us.” The constant motive and sustaining power of our love to God is His love to us! And here let me remark that there are different kinds of food, in this great granary of love. When we are first of all renewed, the only food on which we can live is milk because we are but babes and as yet have not strength to feed on the higher Truths of God.

The first thing, then, that our love feeds upon, when it is but an infant, is a sense of favors received. Ask a young Christian why he loves Christ and he will tell you, “I love Christ because He has bought me with His blood!” Why do you love God the Father? “I love God the Father because He gave His Son for me.” And why do you love God the Spirit? “I love Him because He has renewed my heart.” All that is to say we love God for what He has given us! Our first love feeds on the simple food of a grateful recollection of mercies received. And mark, however much we grow in Grace, this will always constitute a great part of the food of our love.

But when the Christian grows older and has more Divine Grace, he loves Christ for another reason. He loves Christ because he feels Christ deserves to be loved! I trust I can now say I have in my heart a love to God. The Apostles did not merely love Christ because of what He had done for them. You will find in their sonnets and in their letters that their motive of love was that He had communed with them; He had showed them His hands and His side! They had walked with Him in the villages. They had lain with Him on the beds of spices. They had entered into the mystic circle of communion. They felt that they loved Christ because He was all over glorious and was so Divinely fair that if all nations could behold Him, surely they would love Him, too!

This, then, is the food of love. But when love grows rich—and it sometimes does—the most loving heart grows cold towards Christ. Do you know that the only food that ever suits sick love, is the food on which it fed at first? I have heard say by physicians that if a man is sick, there is no place so well adapted for him as the place where he was born. And if love grows sick and cold, there is no place so fit for it to go to as the place where it was born, namely, the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord! Where was love born? Was she born in the midst of romantic scenery and was she nursed with wondrous contemplations upon the lap of beauty? Ah, no! Was she born on the steeps of Sinai when God came from Sinai and the Holy One from mount Paran and melted the mountains with the touch of His foot and made the rocks flow down like wax before His terrible Presence? Ah, no! Was love born on Tabor when the Savior was transfigured and His garment became whiter than wool, whiter than any fuller could make it? Ah, no—darkness rushed over the sight of those who looked upon Him then and they fell asleep, for the Glory overpowered them! Let me tell you where love was born. Love was born in the Garden of Gethsemane where Jesus sweat great drops of blood. It was nurtured in Pilate's Hall where Jesus bared His back to the plowing of the lash and gave His body to be spit upon and scourged. Love was nurtured at the Cross, amid the groans of an expiring God, beneath the droppings of His blood—it was there that love was nurtured. Bear me witness, children of God! Where did your love spring from, but from the foot of the Cross? Did you ever see that sweet flower growing anywhere but at the foot of Calvary? No. It was when you saw “love Divine, all loves excelling,” outdoing itself. It was when you saw love in bondage to itself, dying by its own stroke, laying down its life though it had power to retain it and to take it up again. It was there your love was born. And if you wish your love, when it is sick, to be recovered, take it to some of those sweet places! Make it sit in the shade of the olive trees and make it stand on the pavement and gaze while the blood is still gushing down. Take it to the Cross and bid it look and see afresh the bleeding Lamb! And surely this shall make your love spring from a dwarf into a giant—and this shall fan it from a spark into a flame.

And then, when your love is thus recruited, let me bid you give your love full exercise, for it shall then grow. You say, “Where shall I exercise the contemplation of my love, to make it grow?” Oh, Sacred Dove of love, stretch Your wings and play the eagle. Let us come! Open wide your eyes and look full into the Sun's face and soar upward, upward, upward, far above the heights of this world's creation, upwards, till you are lost in eternity! Remember that God loved you from before the foundation of the world. Does not this strengthen your love? Ah, what a bracing air is that air of eternity? When I fly into it for a moment and think of the great Doctrine of Election—of—

“That vast unmeasured love which from the days of old Did all the chosen seed embrace, like sheep within the fold,”

it makes the tears run down my cheeks to think that we should have an interest in that decree and council of the Almighty Three when everyone that would be blood-bought had his name inscribed in God's eternal book! Come, Soul, I bid you now exercise your wings a little and see if this does not make you love God! He thought of you before you had a being! When as yet the sun and the moon were not—when the sun, the moon and the stars slept in the mind of God like unborn forests in an acorn cup; when the old sea was not yet born; long before this infant world lay in its swaddling bands of mist—God had inscribed your name upon the heart and upon the hands of Christ indelibly, to remain forever! And does not this make you love God? Is not this sweet exercise for your love? For here it is my text comes in, giving, as it were, the last charge in this sweet battle of love—a charge that sweeps everything before it—“We love God because He first loved us,” seeing that He loved us before time began and when He dwelt alone in eternity.

And when you have soared backward into the past eternity, I have yet another flight for you. Soar back through all your own experience and think of the way whereby the Lord your God has led you in the wilderness! Think how He has fed and clothed you every day—how He has borne with your ill manners—how He has put up with all your murmurings and all your longings after the fleshpots of Egypt—how He has opened the Rock to supply you and fed you with manna that came down from Heaven! Think of how His Grace has been sufficient for you in all your troubles—how His blood has been a pardon to you in all your sins—how His rod and His staff have comforted you! And when you have flown over this sweet field of love, you may fly further on and remember that the oath, the Covenant, the blood, have something more in them than the past, for though “He first loved us,” yet this does not mean that He shall ever cease to love, for He is Alpha and He shall be Omega—He is First and He shall be Last! And therefore remember, when you shall pass through the Valley of the Shadow of Death, you need fear no evil for He is with you! When you shall stand in the cold floods of Jordan, you need not fear, for Death cannot separate you from His love! And when you shall come into the mysteries of eternity, you need not tremble, for, “I am persuaded that neither principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.” And now, Soul, is not your love refreshed? Does not this make you love Him? Does not a flight over those illimitable plains of the ether of love inflame your heart and compel you to delight yourself in the Lord your God? Here is the food of love—“We love Him because He first loved us,” and because in that first love there is the pledge and promise that He will love us even to the end!

III. And now comes the third point, the WALK OF LOVE. “We love Him.” Children of God, if Christ were here on earth, what would you do for Him? If it should be rumored tomorrow that the Son of Man had come down from Heaven as He came at first, what would you do for Him? If there should be an Infallible Witness who the feet that trod the holy acres of Palestine were actually treading the roads of Great Britain, what would you do for Him? Oh, I can conceive that there would be a tumult of delighted hearts—a superabundance of liberal hands—that there would be a sea of streaming eyes to behold Him! “Do for Him?” asks one, “Do for Him? Did He hunger? I would give Him food though it were my last crust. Did He thirst? I would give Him water though my own lips were parched with fire. Was He naked? I would strip myself and shiver in the cold to clothe Him! Do for Him? I would scarcely know what to do. I would hurry away and I would cast myself at His dear feet and I would beseech Him, if it would but honor Him, that He would tread upon me and crush me in the dust, if He would but be raised one inch the higher thereby! Did He want a soldier, I would enlist in His army! Did He need that someone should die? I would give my body to be burned if He stood by to see the sacrifice and cheer me in the flames!” O you daughters of Jerusalem! Would you not go forth to meet Him? Would you not rejoice with the taboret and in the dance? Dance, then, you might, like Miriam by the side of Egypt’s waters, red with blood! We, the sons of men, would dance like David before the Ark, exulting for joy, if Christ were come. Ah, we think we love Him so much that we should do all that. But there is a grave question about the truth of this matter. Do you not know that Christ’s Wife and family are here? And if you love Him, would it not follow as a natural inference that you would love His Bride and His offspring? “Ah,” says one, “Christ has no Bride on earth.” Has He not? Has He not espoused unto Himself His Church? Is not His Church, the mother of the faithful, His own chosen Wife? And did He not give His blood to be her dowry? And has He not declared that He never will be divorced from her, for He hates to put away and that He will consummate the marriage in the Last Great Day when He shall come to reign with His people upon the earth?

And has He no children here? “The daughters of Jerusalem and the sons of Zion who have begotten Me these?” Are not they the offspring of the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace, the Child born, the Son given? Surely they are! And if we love Christ, as we think we do, as we pretend we do; we shall love His Church and people. And do you love His Church? Perhaps you love the part to which you belong. You love the hand. It may be a hand that is garnished with many a brilliant ring of noble ceremonies and you love that. You may belong to some poor, poverty-stricken denomination—it may be the foot—and you love the foot. But you speak contemptuously of the hand because it is garnished with greater honors. While perhaps you of the hand are speaking lightly of those who are of the foot. Brothers and Sisters, it is a common thing with us all to love only a part of Christ’s body and not to love the whole. But if we love Him we should love all His people!

When we are on our knees in prayer, I fear that when we are praying for the Church we do not mean all that we say. We are praying for our Church, our section of it. Now, he that loves Christ, if he is a Baptist, he loves the Doctrine of Baptism because he knows it to be Scriptural. But, at the same time, wherever he sees the Grace of God to be in any man’s heart, he loves him because he is a part of the living Church and he does not withhold his heart, his hand, or his house from him because he happens to differ on some point. I pray that the Church in these days may have a more loving spirit towards herself. We ought to delight in the advance of every denomination. Is the Church of England rousing from its sleep? Is she springing like a phoenix from her ashes? God be with her and God bless her! Is another denomination leading the van and seeking by its ministers to entice the wanderer into the House of God? God be with it! Is the Primitive Methodist laboring in the hedge and ditch, toiling for his Master? God help him! Is the Calvinist seeking to uphold Christ Crucified in all his splendors? God be with him! And does another man with far less knowledge preach much error, but still hold that “by grace are you saved through faith,” then God bless him and may success be with him evermore! If you loved Christ better, you would love all Christ’s Church and all Christ’s people.

Do you not know that Christ has now a mouth on earth and has still left a hand on earth and a foot on earth? If you would prove your love to Him, you would not think that you cannot feed Him—you need not imagine that you cannot fill His hand, or that you cannot wash His feet. You can do all this today! He has left His poor and afflicted people and their mouths are hungry—for they need bread—and their tongue is parched for lack of water. You meet them. They come to you. They are destitute and afflicted. Do you refuse them? Do you know who it was you denied at your door? “Inasmuch as you did it not unto one of the least of these, My brethren, you did it not to Me.” In rejecting the petition of the poor when you might have helped them, you rejected Christ! Christ was virtually the man to whom you parsimoniously refused the needed alms—your Savior was thus rejected at the door of one for whom He Himself had died! Do you want to feed Christ? Open your eyes, then, and you shall see Him everywhere! In our back streets, in our lanes; in our alleys; in all our Churches, connected with every branch of Christ's people you shall find the poor and the afflicted! If you want to feed Christ, feed them! But you say that you are willing to wash Christ's feet? Ah, well and you may do it. Has He no fallen children? Are there no Brothers and Sisters who have sinned and who are thus defiled? If Christ's feet were foul, you say you would wash them. Then if a Christian has stepped aside, seek to restore him and lead him once more in the way of righteousness! And do you want to fill Christ's hands with your liberality? His Church is the treasure house of His alms and the hand of His Church is outstretched for help, for she always needs it. She has a work to do which must be accomplished. She is straitened because your help is withheld from her. Pour your gifts into her treasury—for all that you can give unto her is given to the Lord Jesus Christ.

Finally, to stimulate your love, let me remind you that Christ Jesus had two trials of His love which He endured with firmness, but which are often too much for us. When Christ was on high and glorious, I marvel that He loved us. I have known many a man who loved his friend when he was in the same low estate. But he has advanced and he has disdained to know the man at whose table he had fed. A lofty elevation tries the love which we bear to those who are inferior to us in rank. Now, Christ Jesus, the Lord of Heaven and the King of angels, condescended to notice us before He came on earth. He always called us Brothers and Sisters—and since He has ascended up to Heaven and has reassumed the diadem and once more sits down at the right hand of God—He has never forgotten us! His high estate has never made Him slight a disciple! When He rode into Jerusalem in triumph, we do not read that He disdained to confess that the humble fishermen were His followers. And “now, though He reigns exalted on high, His love is still as great.” He still calls us Brethren, Friends! He still recognizes the kinship of the one blood. And yet, strange to say, we have known many Christians who have forgotten much of their love to Christ when they have risen in the world. “Ah,” said a woman who had been desirous to do much for Christ in poverty and who had had a great sum left her, “I cannot do as much as I used to do.” “But how is that?” asked one. She said, “When I had a shilling purse I had a guinea heart, but now that I have a guinea purse I have only a shilling heart.” It is a sad temptation to some men to get rich. They were content to go to the Meeting House and mix with the ignoble congregation while they had but little. They have grown rich; there is an Oriental carpet in the drawing room—they now have arrangements too splendid to permit them to invite the poor of the flock, as once they did. And Christ Jesus is not so fashionable as to allow them to introduce any religious topic when they meet with their new friends. Besides this, they say they are now obliged to pay this visit and that visit—and they must spend so much time upon attire—and in maintaining their station and respectability, they cannot find time to pray as they did. The House of God has to be neglected for the party and Christ has less of their heart than He ever had. “Is this your kindness to your Friend?” And have you risen so high that you are ashamed of Christ? And have you grown so rich, that Christ in His poverty is despised? Alas, poor wealth! Alas, base wealth! Vile wealth! It were well for you if it should be all swept away if a descent to poverty would be a restoration to the ardency of your affection!

But once again—what a trial of love was that when Christ began to suffer for us! There are many men, I doubt not, who are true Believers and love their Savior who would tremble to come to the test of suffering. Imagine yourself, my Brothers and Sisters, taken today into some dark dungeon of the Inquisition—conceive that all the horrors of the dark ages are revived—you are taken down a long dark staircase and hurried, you know not where! At last you come to a place, far deep in the bowels of the earth and round about you see hanging on the walls the pincers, the instruments of torture of all kinds and shapes. There are two inquisitors there who say to you, “Are you prepared to renounce your heretical faith and to return to the bosom of the Church?” I conceive, my Brothers and Sisters, that you would have strength of mind and Grace enough to say, “I am not prepared to deny my Savior.” But when the pincers began to tear your flesh; when the hot coals began to scorch; when the rack began to dislocate your joints—when all the instruments of torture were wreaking their hellish vengeance—unless the supernatural hand of God should be mightily upon you I am sure that in your weakness you would deny your Master and in the hour of your peril would forsake the Lord who bought you! True, the love of Christ in the heart, when sustained by His Grace, is strong enough to bear us through—but I am afraid that with many of us here present—if we had no more love than we now have, we should come out from the inquisition miserable apostates from the faith!

But now remember Christ. He was exposed to tortures, which were by far more tremendous. There is no engine of Romish cruelty that can equal that dreadful torture which forced a sweat of blood from every pore! Christ was scourged and He was crucified. But there were other woes unseen by us which were the soul of His agonies. Now, if Christ in the hour of sore trial had said, "I disown my disciples, I will not die," He might have come down from the Cross. And who could accuse Him of evil? He owed us nothing! We could do nothing for Him. Poor worms would be all that He would disown. But our Master, even when the bloody sweat covered Him as with a mantle of gore, never thought of disowning us—NEVER. "My Father," He said once, "if it is possible, let this cup pass from Me." But there was always the, "If it is possible." If it is possible to save without it, let the cup pass. But if not, Your will be done. You never hear Him say in Pilate's Hall one word that would let you imagine that He was sorry He had undertaken so costly a sacrifice for us! And when His hands are pierced and when He is parched with fever and His tongue is dried up like a potsherd—and His whole body is dissolved into the dust of death—you never hear a groan or a shriek that looks like going back. It is the cry of one determined to go on though He knows He must die on His onward march! It was love that could not be stayed by death, but overcame all the horrors of the grave.

Now, what do we say to this? We who live in these gentler times—are we about to give up our Master when we are tried and tempted for Him? Young man in the workshop! It is your lot to be jeered at because you are a follower of the Savior. And will you turn back from Christ because of a jeer? Young woman! You are laughed at because you profess the religion of Christ—shall a laugh dissolve the link of love that knits your heart to Him—when all the roar of Hell could not divert His love from you? And you who are suffering because you maintain a religious principle—are you cast out from men? Will you not bear that the house should be stripped and that you shall eat the bread of poverty rather than dishonor such a Lord? Will you not go forth from this place, by the help of God's Spirit, vowing and declaring that in life, come poverty, come wealth—in death, come pain, or come what may—you are and always must be the Lord's, for this is written on your heart, "We love Him because He first loved us"?
